VINAL HAVEN STRIKE HAS BEEN SETTLED.

Men Have Been Out Since March 1 and a Great Deal of Hardship Has Been Experienced.

Vinal Haven, Me., Aug. 31.—The strike of granite cutters in the quarries of this place which has been in progress since March 1 has been finally settled, and about 100 quarry workers will go to work for the first time in six months under the same working agreement which governed the industry here for the three years ending March 1st.

The demands of the cutters which brought on the strike were an increase in wages and the elimination of certain pneumatic tools in the shops. It is understood that in the settlement their request for a wage increase was waived, and the manufacturers agreed to confine the use of the pneumatic tools objected to, to work in which their employment was a necessity.

The strike caused considerable hardship throughout the island generally and many of the quarry workers left town to seek work elsewhere. It is believed that most of these will return to their families here with the resumption of operations.

Penance in India.

The realism that invariably characterizes Lyman H. Howe's Lifeorama to be seen in Barre opera house on Wednesday, September 2, makes the spectator feel he is really seeing the original. The sense of witnessing an entertainment disappears entirely. The program of a liberal education itself and a delight to the eye. It is almost with regret that one leaves a certain panorama resplendent with beauty for still stranger scenes in other lands.

The appalling sacrifices made by religious devotees in India have often been described but not with the pictorial effect shown in this program by a native reclining on a bed of nails for seven years. Similarly some stand for years with extended arm till it withers and becomes immovable others climb the hand until the nails grow through the flesh; some suspend themselves from hooks or leap through fire. This pictorial reproduction of penance in India, is, however, a mere detail of a series of moving pictures comprising whole India. Still other features reveal the sordid life of the Neapolitans; the pursuits of the Sicilians and the pastimes of the Australians. The sculptured art and beauty of Rome is revealed during a personally conducted drive, while Savoy is traversed by automobile. Humorous episodes of animal and bird life; the wonders of Physical Phenomena; a new drill by (i) Reedian Orphans, etc., barely suggest the wealth of amusement and instruction combined in this one program.

Utterly Selfish.

Nellie—That Clara Sharpe is just the meanest, most utterly selfish girl I ever saw. She never thinks of any one but herself. Dora—Tell me about it, Nellie—I ran in there the other evening for a few moments, and while I was there Mr. Spooner called. It wasn't long before he requested her to play. He's passionately fond of music, you know. Well, what do you think that girl did? She asked him to come to the piano and turn the music for her, so that I couldn't talk to him.

The Old and the New.

Little Johnny's father is a physician, and his mother is a Christian Scientist. Recently the little boy was threatened with appendicitis. His sister, going into the room where Johnny was in bed, found a very indignant little boy, who made this complaint:

"Father and mother won't let me talk slang, but when I told mother how sick I was she said, 'Forget it! and when I told father he said, 'Cut it out!'—Judge's Library.

In Venice.

"Yes," remarked Mrs. Malaprop-Partington, "we had a lovely time in Venice. There are no cars there, you know, because the streets are all full of water. One hires a chandler and he rows you about in a dogola."

Presence of Mind.

Few possess the quickness of thought and action characteristic of the costermonger's wife who exclaimed, "She said I wasn't a lady, she did, and the next minute I 'ad 'er 'ead in the gut ter."

Why James Lee Got Well.

Everybody in Zanesville, O., knows Mrs. Mary Lee of rural route 8. She writes: "My husband, James Lee, firmly believes he owes his life to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery. His lungs were so severely affected that consumption seemed inevitable, when a friend recommended New Discovery. We tried it, and its use has restored him to perfect health." Dr. King's New Discovery is the king of throat and lung remedies. For coughs and colds it has no equal. The little dose gives relief. Try it! Sold under guarantee at Red Cross Pharmacy, Rickert & Wells' drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked ambition, was worn out and all run down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Mounsp. Conn.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment. 50 cents at any drug store.

Bilious? Feel heavy after dinner? Tongue coated? Bitter taste? Complexion sallow? Liver needs waking up. Doan's Regulator cures bilious attacks. 25 cents at any drug store.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

The Snake (—) Curve Ball.

In the golden days of summer, When with Skinny, Red and Fat On the pasture lot of Homeville You indulged in two-old-cats, You remember—aye—the presence Of that wizard 'mongst you all, Who possessed the magic secret Of the snake (—) curve ball!

'Tis the mastery of all things Giving boyhood, nothing less, That enables him to soak 'em, Wriggling like the letter S; While the eager batter flushes, 'Wildered by the mocking call, 'Aw, I fooled you! Aw, I fooled you! That's the snake (—) curve ball!

See those fearsome, long contortions! Hear the quick, triumphant shout, Which appraises all newcomers, "I can throw an in-on-out!" Tens of thousands, why your homage? Clarkson or Waddell are small When compared to freckled urchin With his snake (—) curve ball!

You, no doubt, were that brave pitcher ("Watch me make it do it! Gee!") Spitting scoffers, baffling science, ("Can't you—can't I, Fat Now, see!") "Papa," "captain," "judge," "professor" Oft may honor's mantle fall, But there's none like to the mantle Of the snake (—) curve ball! —Judge.

Thaw Doesn't Want Divorce.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Harry K. Thaw yesterday denied unqualifiedly the report that he intended to bring suit for divorce against Evelyn Thaw. He added, however, that his wife was at present in a sanatorium taking a rest cure, but he refused to divulge her whereabouts.

Thaw said that he knew positively that his wife was not contemplating bringing proceedings for a separation.

Idyllic Situation.

"They are such ideal chums seem ingly."

"Yes, and thereby hangs a tale, a romance in real life. They fell in love at first sight and were married right away, and for awhile it looked as if there would be no more to the story. But in time their love ripened into friendship—think of it!—and now they are what you see."—Puck.

Peanuts.

Arachides, or peanuts, are imported into France from east Africa, the British and Dutch East Indies, Argentina, Algeria, Senegal, Australia and the United States. Those imported as nuts to the shell yield edible oil, while de-corticated peanut kernels produce inferior grades of oil, which are used mainly for soapmaking.

Undesirables.

The Chinese and Japanese are not the only ones excluded by the United States government. Birds, like the English sparrow and the sterling, find the ports shut to them. So do rabbits, the mongoose and the flying fox.

The Human Ear.

Experts tell us that in all the world you will not find a perfect human ear.

A HINDOO'S TOILET.

Curious Morning Scene in an East Indian Compound.

All over the compound, from verandas and "go-downs," forms are seen rising from sleep, each one "wrapping the drapery of his couch about him," with no idea in doing so of conforming to any standards urged upon the attention of the race by Mr. Bryant, but for the simpler if less poetic reason that these draperies constitute his bedding by night and his nether garment by day. But do not make the mistake of thinking that because the requirements of the Hindoo's costume are scanty his toilet is therefore a perfunctory matter. Follow him to the well. The chances are that you will never drink water again, but you will obtain knowledge. On the brink of that great yawning hole in the ground known as the compound well, whose sides are of stone and whose steps lead you down to the water's edge, behold the "males" of the compound. Divested of the draperies already referred to and in attitudes ranging all the way from the pose of the "Disk Thrower" to that of the most resolute squatter upon a western claim, they are lined up in a row from the top of the steps to the bottom. In the hand of each is a chatty, and one and all are engaged in the offices of the morning bath. And their tub is the well. The brimming chatties are passed up and the empty ones down, legs are curried, feet are scoured, teeth are polished with charcoal and stick, throats are gargled, noses trumpeted, and, in short, the whole man receives such a washing and splashing, such a mauling and polishing, as leaves nothing to be desired except in connection with the well. This latter consideration, however, is one that does not disturb the Hindoo, who, priding himself upon being externally the cleanest platter in the universe, devotes but little thought to the inside of the dish.

His ablutions and those of his colleagues concluded, he fills his chatty once more from the pure fountain below, lifts it high in the air, throws his head back and with unerring aim pours the crystal libation in one long, steady stream down his open throat, skillfully poised to receive and conduct it to his germ proof interior. This done, his draperies are resumed, and he departs to his work.

Suddenly, as out of a catapult, the sun leaps up from behind the eastern hills, and day is at hand.—Mary Anabel Chamberlain in Atlanta.

Posters.

Posters took their name from the fact that in former times the footways of London streets were separated from the drives by a line of posts on which advertisements were displayed.

Mascots.

Mascots have had their place in the world for many generations. Cats, as with the ancient Egyptians; grasshoppers, as in Italy, and various other specimens of animal life have in their time been counted as sacred or lucky by different peoples.
